DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 1-14, 16-21 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Leslie (US 147,849) and further in view of Lee (US 5,440,836).

Leslie discloses the claimed fountain structure except a pump is not mentioned in the design of the device.

As can be seen in Figures 1 and 2 Leslie's fountain comprises a planter A having an upper rim D and an interior J for draining water and for storing water in pipe N. The pipe or tubular post N is connected to a fountain or sprinkler head P for discharging a quantity of water. On the upper rim D a second planter C is positioned on and suspended from the exterior of the upper rim. Regarding claims 2-4 there are also, at least, a third and fourth planter (also designated with reference character C). The multiple planters are positioned at different heights, and upon examination of Figure 1 it can be seen that the planters are also positioned in a staggered relationship with one another that places one respective planter between two other planters as stated in claim 4. The tiered structure of the planter A has each successive rim extending circumferentially, therefore making the additional planters ready to receive a portion of the discharged water from the fountain/sprinkler head. The base H of Leslie's fountain structure has the greatest circumference of all the rims of the planter, allowing it to receive and properly drain all excess water that is expended by the water discharge device or sprinkler head.

The base further comprises support legs and is adapted to receive the entire structure thereon.

Leslie's device however does not mention the use of a pump for supplying the water to be discharged. It is noted that the use of a pump in these types of devices is quite common. Lee provides a teaching of the use of a pump in a similarly tiered fountain structure for the cultivation of plants. In Lee's device it can be seen in Figure 2 that a pump 62, positioned at the bottom of the structure, provides a supply of water to a tubular post 40 that is connected to a water discharge device or sprinkler. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize a pump to supply a constant stream of water to Leslie's fountain structure in order to continuously circulate water through the planter.

3. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Leslie, in view of Lee, and further in view of Steffan (US 6,092,333).

Leslie, as modified, discloses the claimed invention except for the wheel assembly on the base. Steffan teaches that a wheel assembly is a common feature of a plant apparatus in order to allow movement across the ground as stated by Steffan in claim 3. Since a wheel assembly is commonly used in the art to provide mobility for a device or apparatus, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to modify Leslie's base to include a wheel assembly in order to transport the fountain structure.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-22 have been considered but are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
